PRESENT CALL

Stand up to the call,
Of nature which once stood tall,
But, through pollution, falling of trees,
Has fallen; man acts, broke the wall.
Oh Weeping Nature!
Let's restore!

Once upon a time, chirping of birds,
Buzzing, whisper of insects,
Flowers floral scents,
Trees scenic view, now in debt.
Oh Lost Nature!
Let's rebirth!

Nature weeps, the future grief.
Peace, relief, lost with fallen leaves.
This wounded earth, calls for chiefs.

You and I, let's spread the news.
Oh Broken Nature!
Let's retrieve!

Depleted layers, the sun ignites,
With blazing might that can blur sight.
No! It has blurred nature's light.
Go green, build, let nature fight.
Oh Fading Shield!
Let's bring alive!

The rich lands, now cracked and dry.
Deserts, without water, withered only cry.
Nature misuse, water says goodbye.
Nature shrinks, pleads, its only reply.
Oh Withered Earth!
Let's heal with care!

Rivers fade, man clears forests.
Violent winds, man care less.
Mountains crumble, yet man invests.
Most blind, and biased.
Oh deaf minds!
Bring back the radiance!

Let not judgement have its way.
Let awareness take its stay.
Spread the truth both far and near,
Till all have heard, till none will err.
Oh Dwellers of Earth!
