THE GUARDIANS

Arise! Guardians of the web of life
To mend what reckless hands have destroyed
For while ye slept, the earth shed silent tears
Nature's garment defiled with dross
The sun's rays trapped, no room for escape
The dread from burning fossil fuel gotten
The forest fell, and a cry for justice echoes through the air.

Arise! Guardians of the web of life
A selfless breed to heal a bruised reed
Agents of change, fighting a cause so dire

For the cause, strength and sum a small price
Building artificial reefs, heeding rejuvenation's call
Weaving a haven of green tapestry , a ray of hope for the Sahels
To the beat of complexity, the dance of discovery necessitated

Arise! guardians of the web of life
To release the trapped rays through decarbonization
To trap wild use for mindful use
To orchestrate a symphony of science and technology
To use nature's ever-flourishing energy
The young to equip as future guardians
That a cause so dire may never die

A future so green to secure

A garden of bloom springing anew

Filled with an atmosphere unblemished

Flowing out a sanctified river suitable for all.
