

Generation Restoration: Shaping Our Future

Countless events have occurred prior the creation of our planet Earth also called Terra or Gaia, Generation to generation we have improved numerous aspects of the habitats of our world.

The earliest race were the cavemen who were known to adapt quickly to their surroundings they innovated objects to hunt, cloth themselves and build homes for their living, they played their part in shaping our future.

As of now the year 2025, many occurrences are ongoing such as wars, conflicts, deforestation, erosion, pollution innumerable negative factors destroying our time ahead, but it can all be resolved by some measures to be taken by our species.

Pollution, deforestation and erosion are closely similar they can each be solved by reducing waste, diverting to clean energy, afforestation, planting of vegetation and avoiding overgrazing.

In conclusion this can all take place with our contributions, and attitudes to improve our environment for the better future endeavouring to change the look of the time ahead of us because as mahatma gandhi said “The future depends on what we do today.”
