

The Earth heaves, making a weary sigh,
For wildlife decline beneath the sky.
Industrialisation comes with a heavy toll,
Our ecosystem, losing control.
From the soil to the ocean's deep,
The subtle annihilation makes us weep.
Wild animals dwindle, at a subtle cost,
Plant diversity, almost lost.
With pollution becoming a global dread,
While warming temperatures are widespread.

But hope now blossoms, bright and new,
With "Generation Restoration" breaking through.
Through critical artwork, and voices strong,
To redeem our failings, where we went wrong.
Through intentional planting, meticulous and right,
We restore our lands, with all our might.
Purifying waters, showing care,
For climate defence, we now prepare.

From local parks to coastal ways,
We foster resilience for future days.
With choices mindful, wise and new,
A sustainable path, for me and you.
For every action, small or grand,
Heals this precious, fragile land.

A future shaped by greener dreams,
Where life and nature truly gleams.
For a healthier planet, bright and true,
A restored Earth, for me and you.
