

The Future is Now

Sometimes we get carefree and other times, we want to be free

For what it is worth, we are all at fault

Shrinking responsible is not the solution

The best part of life is to take actions

The call for nature is not superficial but desperate,

Sometimes it is best to look around you and find inspiration

Some days, little acts make a difference, watering a dying plant isn't just feeling sorry for it.

But for the world and future generation, it makes all the difference

Dear leaders, we always hope for the future, forgetting that we live in the future with every second that pass by

“Future”, we say but all hands are not on deck for the future

We find it easy to point out others fault, oblivious to ours.

We fail to realise that the eyes of the future are on us, taking and copying.

As we look around us with indifference on barren lands. Know that the future generation see.

Reviving might not be easy but the passion should never waver

We are not perfect but we should learn and teach the value of perfect imperfection.

The future generation should never forget their roots and origin.
